HONGKONG, MARCH 13TH, 1868.

WE publish to-day some further details relating to the insurgent movements near Tientsin than we could give yesterday morning, and though of course they cannot entirely remove the anxiety which may be felt for residents at that port, it is probable that in view of the frequency with which the cry of "wolf" has been raised in the north, no one will have had any very long anxiety to begin with. To be infested with robels is a normal state of things with the northern provinces, and unless utterly new regimes established in China, if that is ever destined to happen, it will continue a normal state of things. China is governed by centralised misrepresentation. The principle of centralisation is thoroughly comprehended everywhere, and it is assumed that at the centre of all things there is some actual positive and tangible power which could enforce its own decrees in the last extremity. The population of the empire, as a rule, is thoroughly imbued with a belief in indefeasible but awful consequences which would arise if the Emperor's displeasure were excited. Should any one ask them what would happen then, they would reply in MANDRIN SUTTON'S famous phrase, "God only knows!" A profoundly planted superstition is the finest lever a Government can use. With such a weapon, one never be used again. The robels of China have discovered its weakness. They find that being robels does not lead to any result in particular—that they may go on being robels to the end of their natural life, and may probably firing up an interesting family of young robels to their own sidder. There is no reason why a Chinese rebellion once fairly started should ever die out, unless foreign nationals are illadvised enough to meddle in the matter, and help an impotent Government to re-establish a delusion in its own favour.

With all this facility for carrying on rebellion, however, the pursuit itself must generally remain unprofitable in the extreme, in such a country as this, because the rebels can never aim at any permanent success worth having. At all events, they can never hope, as rebels always hope in other countries, to overturn the existing government and establish themselves in its place. Even supposing them capable of capturing Pekin, they could not make themselves masters of the superstition on which the power of Pekin rests. The finest rebellions which there have been in China, therefore, have aimed at some object beneath the dignity of a revolution. After all, the Taeping rebellion had for its object a secession, so to speak; not that certain provinces had any wide spread aspirations towards independence, but the leaders of the Taepings sought to cut off certain provinces from the main empire. The Nienfei rebellion is beneath the rank of the Taeping effort altogether. It can hardly be said to have a political character at all. It simply ensues from the fact that a number of people, reduced to misery of various kinds, discovered for themselves, through acts of desperation, that it was possible to go on being robels for an unlimited period. They have gone on accordingly, and it is in the last degree improbable that they will refrain from going on, so long as they are only opposed in the way they have been opposed during the last three years; but all through this time they have shown a prudent anxiety to avoid coming in contact with foreigners, and there is no reason to suppose that Tientsin is in any more danger now, than Hankow has been in a dozen times over without ever being actually attacked. It is, no doubt, impossible to feel sure that any given body of Nienfei are sufficiently wide awake to their own political interests, to avoid bringing on the hostility of European powers, and the cry of "wolf" may portend a serious calamity at any time, but none the less is it impossible to feel apprehension when it has been so often raised to no purpose.

One reflection, it is true, is always suggested by the domestic troubles of the Chinese. They are troubles which a government like that of Great Britain in India would dispose of in an incredibly short space of time. The people who have succeeded in pacifying India would find the work of governing China mere child's-play. The difference between the two undertakings is immeasurable. In India we had to deal with a vast expanse of territory inhabited by an infinity of warlike and conflicting tribes. There was no framework of Government to render the task of assuming supreme power more easy. Authority had to be established inch by inch, and fought for at every step. Still the result was achieved. If in the progress of time it should ever happen that a European Government was set up a Pekin, how infinite more simple the task of establishing it at confirming it would be? We are not discussing the advisability of such a step, but whenever the mind is turned towards the subject, it is impossible to avoid being struck by the marvellous ease with which China could be conquered by a European power. How these Nienfei and other annoyances would vanish away before well appointed flying columns of horse! How the whole machine would go on working of itself, meanwhile! Of all the facts concerning China which are misunderstood at home, perhaps its susceptibility of conquest is understood least.

The following crews were drawn yesterday at the Clubhouse, for a coxed four-oared race, to come off to-morrow afternoon, over the course between Burrow Wharf and Messrs. Smith, Archer & Co.:—

BEFORE C. MAY, Esq.

CHARLES SEWART AGAIN.

This inveterate toper was again brought the sitting magistrate for being drunk and incapable. From the evidence of P.C. 30 it appeared that the defendant was on the green opposite the cricket ground, on the 11th instant, during the time the military were going through their evolutions; he was very drunk, and in their evolutions he was very drunk, and in their evolutions he was very drunk, and in their evolutions

Professor Vanek.

The theatre of the Lusitano Club was again filled last night, this time by an audience which overflowed all the seats, and had to accommodate itself in the orchestra, and round the sides as well, in honor of Professor Vanek's final performance. As before, he introduced in the first part, fresh tricks, or "experiments" as modern magicians prefer to describe them, though many of these were rather old and common place. Decorated at home generally to less dignified scenes than stages like that of the Professor. The principal feat of the evening, however, was effective in a high degree, though very different from that which the advertised pictures led people to expect. The young lady previously introduced was put upon a table, without a cloth or other covering, the same which was used in the Oracle of Delhi trick, and covered with a large extinguisher, through which the conjuror drove his sword in a very alarming manner. At a given moment, however, announced by an unexpected explosion, she reappeared in one of the private boxes. The audience were fairly taken by surprise, and applauded to the echo, even though there was no visible passage of Mlle. Adele over the heads of the spectators. Even those who after a second observation of the magic table may believe that they comprehend the mystery of the disappearance and of the Oracle, will readily acknowledge that the Professor's appliances are highly ingenious, and have fairly earned him the remarkable success he has achieved in Hongkong.

PENNY SALES AT SHANGHAI.—Prices for Griffins are certainly not on the decline, for at the sale yesterday, one pony realized Tls. 220, another Tls. 125, a third Tls. 110, whilst six or seven others were sold at prices ranging from Tls. 60 to Tls. 100. The high priced one is a white with a few spots, not unlike Joli Coeur in appearance.—N. O. Daily News, 6th instant.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Hongkong, Thursday Evening.

There is no change to report in the market for Bengal Drug. No cash transactions have taken place, there being none available. Some excitement, however, prevailed in the afternoon, resulting in speculative sales of New Extra of the 1867 sales, on three weeks' time to arrive, as high as $602. Regular importers do not appear to feel at all disposed to entertain such offers. An advance of $45 a chest has already been established upon the lowest sales of this drug, while formerly by two or three firms of speculators, between 500 to 1,000 chests may be computed as the total quantity disposed of at higher figures, and some anxiety is already beginning to be felt whether in the event of any further material advance in the price it will be possible to fulfil engagements. Benares has changed hands at $685 on time, at which it closes firm, with more buyers than sellers. In Malwa, some little business has been done at $690 to $695, on credit terms to the makers, and with about a early reduction in weight per piul; on cash terms it has been placed at $680, but only a few chests, large holders are demanding higher prices, and do not care much at present to meet such low offers. Business continues rather quiet in the other departments of trade. There have been some sales of Piece Goods, but the market shows no material change. Holders are firm in their present demands, but dealers for the time being appear to be boasting aloof. Transactions reported include 3,600 pieces 8¼ Grey Shirtings at $8.80, 2160 8 lbs. T-Cloth at $2.85 to $2.90, 700 pieces White Shirtings at $5.00, and 11 bales 23|32 Cotton Yarn at $147½. The movement in Raw Cotton has been rather brisk, and prices are a shade better to-day than they have been for some time past. Transactions amount to 850 bales Bengal Staple at $15 to $15.75, and 450 bales Bombay at $12 to $13. The sales reported below give the movement in produce so far as we can learn. With the exception of some activity in Hoal, the share market has been rather quiet. Several large lots of these have been settled at 30 discount, and there are further buyers at this rate. A few old Bank found buyers at 14 premium. New are to be had at 3 premium, with numerous sellers. Whampoa Dock are quoted 15 and 5 premium, with sellers. There are buyers of China Traders' at $120 premium.

The Bristol Banquet to her Majesty's Ministers.

(Times, Jan. 23.)

If banquets can cheer the hearts of men, her Majesty's Ministers ought to be emboldened to meet every difficulty, present and to come, with courage and gaiety. Their supporters in all parts of the kingdom have shown themselves eager to entertain their leaders, and to testify their approbation by manifestations of confidence. The Conservatives of Bristol have just followed the example set them in Scotland and Lancashire by welcoming the Administration.

We must condole with the men of Bristol that neither the chief of the Ministry nor the leader of the House of Commons graced their banquet. With Lord Derby and Mr. Disraeli absent, it must be owned that the Administration appeared shorn of its most conspicuous ornaments. Circumstances which were of course unavoidable prevented the attendance of these wise men of the East at the Western gathering. But Sir John Pakington, who is equal to every emergency, was present; Mr. Gathorne Hardy happily blended the party man and the patriot; and Lord Stanley, whose words perhaps inspire more confidence than those of any other member of the Ministry, made the speech of the evening. He was in his happiest vein. He took his hearers into his confidence, and when he is frank and confidential he is apt, as members of the House of Commons are well aware, to be extremely winning. Some slight retrospect he made of the work of last session. It had brought great responsibilities, frequent anxieties, and no inconsiderable obloquy on the Ministry. The charge which had been affected was important, and no one can pretend to predict with certainty its results. Lord Stanley confessed, as known as the "Gaps Chemes" containing 8 Rooms, besides Bar and Parlour, also Bath Rooms, Pantry, Store Room, Cellar, Large Oven, &c., &c., all in good repair. REDUCTION

In the rates of premium for FIRE INSURANCE.

THE Undersigned have (as already intimated in their Circular dated 14th October last) received authority from the Secretary of the Royal Insurance Company to reduce the rate of Premium under certain circumstances, on private residences and on Furnitures and effects therein contained.

In cases of Dwelling Houses removed from the town the rate of premium will be three-quarters per cent. in place of one per cent. per annum as hitherto charged, and in cases of Residences situated being detached or semi-detached the rate will be further reduced to one-half per cent.

The Royal's annual rates for Fire Insurance on the various classes of Buildings and their contents will therefore remain as follows until further notice, viz:—
